

Presuppositions: The Failure of Higher Education (Before Scenario)

Thumbnail image: Black screen with white text reading "Presuppositions: The Failure of Higher Education (Before Scenario)"

Video: Opening title card displays on black screen with white text: "Presuppositions: The Failure of Higher Education (Before Scenario)." Camera reveals stage setting with five people arranged across the stage, depicting the state of higher education before its failure.

Video: Stage setup shows five performers positioned from right to left. A man in academic regalia stands stage right, appearing pleased and making handshaking gestures. To his left, a woman sits on the edge of the stage, gazing thoughtfully at a computer screen. In the center, a young woman sits earnestly on a four-legged stool, absorbed in reading a book. Further left, a serious-looking professor mimes writing diligently on an imaginary board. At stage left, a young woman sits on the edge of the stage, enthusiastically and repeatedly raising her hand.

Video: Camera slowly pans from right to left, focusing on each performer's individual actions in sequence, capturing the engaged and productive atmosphere of higher education in its idealized state.
