

Presuppositions: The Failure of Higher Education (After Scenario)

Thumbnail image: Black screen with white text reading "Presuppositions: The Failure of Higher Education (After Scenario)"

Video: Opening title card displays on black screen with white text: "Presuppositions: The Failure of Higher Education (After Scenario)." Camera reveals the same stage setting with the same five performers, but now depicting the total breakdown of higher education.

Video: Camera first pans to the formerly eager student, now lying down horizontally and scrolling on her cell phone with complete disengagement. Loud banging sounds can be heard in the background, creating an atmosphere of disorder.

Video: Camera pans to the professor, still waving her pride flag but now brandishing a sharpie aggressively in the direction of the admin, showing confrontation has replaced teaching.

Video: Camera moves to the Shakespeare student, who has pulled her hoodie over her head. The source of the banging becomes clear as she jumps up and down, kicking her books in frustration and destruction of learning materials.

Video: Camera focuses on the computer student, who has abandoned her computer entirely. She now wears sunglasses and picks her nose with a completely clueless expression. Her posture has changed - no longer sitting properly on the stage edge but with her legs stretched out in front of her, showing total disengagement.

Video: Camera reveals the admin facing the professor, angrily pointing a blaming finger at her in a heated confrontation.

Video: Camera pans out as the book-kicking student finally sits down cross-legged and chews on her vape. The final wide shot captures the entire tableau depicting complete educational collapse.
